Reese Pharmaceutical Offers Scholarship Opportunities to its Employees

The management team of Reese Pharmaceutical Company strongly believes in the need for well-educated employees. To assist interested employees, the company initiated a scholarship program in 2006. High school seniors and college student employees demonstrating acceptable work attendance, attitude, and work habits will be considered for receipt of college scholarships.

To be eligible to receive a scholarship award*, students must submit proper proof of their current enrollment at a qualified institution as well as their cumulative GPA.

Scholarships will be awarded based on prior academic performance. A student's grade point average (GPA) will determine the value of the scholarship. The company president, general manager and controller will determine awards.

To date, Reese has issued $7,000 in annual scholarship awards to employees matriculating at Wright State University, Cleveland State University, and Remington College.

Scholarship award funds may only be used for qualified tuition, student fees, books, supplies and equipment required for courses of instruction at a qualified institution of higher learning.*
